Tribute Paid To Mayor And Local Citizens By Princeton

One Williamson, Chairman of the Electric Plant of Princeton, called the daily Ledger and Times yesterday and dictated a tribute to Mayor Holmes Ellis and a group of Murray citizens who made a trip to Princeton on Monday night to tell a town hall meeting of citizens of the Murray experience with the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The group had been invited by Mayor Kelsey R. Cummins, the electric plant board, the industrial plant for city council, the present city council and interested friends to appear in Princeton, Monday night.

The release by Mr. Williamson is printed below for the interest of Ledger and Times readers.

"Mayor Holmes Ellis, who arranged for the Murray delegation, and the entire group of in-

Beat Hoptown Is Murray High Chant

The Murray Tigers are crying, "Beat Hoptown" as they prepare to defend against the Hopkinsville Grid invaders Friday night at 7:30 in Holland Stadium.

Murray High has a 4-4 record with three more games to play this season. After Hoptown, the Tigers will face Paris Grove and Trigg County.

The local team has been working hard this week with the hope of beating their strong opponent Friday night. Both Murray and Hopkinsville have looked good in their last two games.

Hopkinsville has defeated Mayfield and Caldwell County in its last two outings and Murray lost a squeaker to powerful Madisonville, 14-12, and trounced Iauded Providence 49-6. A comparison of the two teams in their play with Madisonville gives Murray the edge but a comparison of their games with Mayfield gives Hopkinsville the edge.

Hoptown gave Caldwell County its worst defeat in the past two seasons last week and the Tigers will have to play their best game of the year to capture the victory. Coach Ty Holland reports that the team is determined to win.

The improved running of Koppert, Rose, Williams and Robertson and the improved blocking by the whole team plus defensive line play led by Rickman and Lee, give the Tigers hope for an upset victory.

Putnam is in the hospital in Columbus, Ohio, in a card to the Ledger and Times Dr. Putnam said that he was in the University Hospital and that he would be recovering in the home of his son Dr. Loren Putnam, 360 Morning Street, Northampton, Ohio.

His office and laboratory is near the hospital where Dr. Putnam is, and he has good care, he reports.

Dr. Putnam sends his regards to his many friends in Murray, and Calloway County.

Letter to the Editor

A letter appeared in this column Tuesday to which I hope no rebuttal is necessary. In essence, this letter attacked the United Nations and UNICEF. It inferred that instead of helping needy people, support for the UNICEF Fund would "aid governments to develop socialist programs" and go "to benefit the Communist cause to build a war machine."

The letter concluded by glorifying the American system "by which the country has shown all people how they could escape hunger and poverty."

One wonders in passing whether the author has ever traveled through the eastern portions of this state, where our economic system has not proved to be so universally generous. More to the point here, one of the best ways to do our country damage is to take a provincial attitude and such cooperative efforts as the United Nations. It is imperative from either a "selfish" or a Christian point of view that we learn to live with our fellow man. The United Nations is an effort in this direction, and sorely needs and deserves our support. Surely the charges leveled at UNICEF were to absurd to need comment.

No Cases In Traffic Court

Not a single case was scheduled last night in the Tuesday night traffic court of City Judge Jake Dunn.

The number of cases fell off sharply last week and this week no case at all were on docket.

This morning Judge Dunn said that no citations were issued from last Tuesday through the week following.

Normally traffic cases are tried on Tuesday night with those appearing before persons who receive traffic citations from Tuesday night of the previous week.

Judge Dunn was instituted by the court in order to find some solution to growing traffic violations in the city.

The administrator of the Murray Hospital, Bernard Harvey, recently received the formal report of the Kentucky State Board of Health, in which it was reported that the local hospital has complied with all laws and regulations governing Kentucky hospitals.

This inspection reviews all aspects of hospital operation with emphasis on sanitation, food preparation and square feet allocated to each patient bed.

Harvey further reported that there were fifty-eight adult patients and seventeen newborn babies in the hospital on Tuesday of this week, for a total of seventy-five patients.

Criticized For Promises

MIDDLESBORO — John M. Robison Jr., Republican candidate for governor, said a tour of Bert T. Combs' home district shows that his opponent took no part in leadership roles in the church, civic, county or eastern Kentucky affairs.

"What did Combs do before he ran for governor," Robison asked in a speech here Tuesday night. "Nothing," Robison said, according to the people of Prestonsburg, Combs' hometown.

Robison said in regard to his program that he would do more for Kentucky farmers than Combs. "My opponent," he said, went to Wisconsin, North Carolina and to Virginia, to find out about Kentucky's problems. But anyone knows you can't find out in one day about Kentucky's problems, several hundred miles away from Kentucky.

"If I wanted to find out about the problems confronted by Kentucky farmers, I would consult the leaders of the Kentucky Farm Bureau or the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture," Robison said.

Earlier at Pineville he branded his Democratic rival as "pathetic" and lacking "the fundamental decency and dignity that Kentuckians have a right to expect from their candidate for governor."

Robison told a crowd in the Bell County Courthouse that in addition to being the "Biggest promoter who ever ran for governor, Combs is the 'most careless with his public statements.'"

"Combs is indulging in personal mud-slinging and is misrepresenting my record, my campaign statements and my program," Robison continued. "He is utterly careless with the facts," he added.

"I presume he is trying to be funny when he makes ridiculous and erroneous statements," Robison continued. "But, instead, he is pathetic and clearly demonstrates that in addition to being careless about the facts, he does not possess the fundamental decency and dignity that Kentuckians have a right to expect of those who run for high office."

Robison also criticized Combs for claiming that both candidates were scheduled to be at a meeting in Lexington Monday night and at two other recent meetings.

Paducah Woman Is Arrested Tuesday On Embezzlement Charge

PADUCAH (UPI) — Thirty-four-year-old Mrs. Laverne T. Scally, Louisville, clerk at the Bank of Louisville, was arrested Tuesday on a charge of embezzling $2,000 in personal money orders from the bank.

Mrs. Scally was arrested following indictment by a Federal Court jury. She is under $10,000 bond, pending trial in Federal District Court at Louisville.

"She is accused of falsifying and cashing Bank of Louisville personal money orders. She is said to have erased the words that showed the money orders were void, signed fictitious names and cashed them."

An investigation showed that a shortage of $2,007.46 existed, U.S. Dist. Atty. William Jones said.

Mrs. Scally, according to Jones, was convicted of a charge of interstate transportation of fraudulent checks in Federal Court at Louisville in 1956. She was given a two-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for two years.

She was then cashier at the Kentucky Hotel and used hotel funds to cash the checks.

Building Sells For $18,150,000

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sold for $18,150,000, the auctioneer's final cry echoed in New York real estate circles today. It was the winning bid for real estate tycoon William Zeckendorf for the 71-story 40 Wall St. Building which is the fourth tallest skyscraper in the world.

The skyscraper went on the auction block Tuesday with a required starting bid of 17 million dollars.

Only two prospective buyers stepped forward to offer $200,000 to enable them to enter the bidding. Zeckendorf, president of Webb & Knapp, Inc., and Sidney R. Nussenzfeld, an attorney representing a syndicate of real estate investors, began the bidding briskly with $25,000 jumps.

But at $17,175,000 the offerings began to drop to $1,000 and $5,000 bids and both men cautiously felt their way into the higher brackets.

"Zeckendorf" began to put the pressure on at $17,850,000 with jumps of $40,000. Nussenzfeld kept in the running with $1,000 bids.

At $18,150,000, Nussenzfeld said his group would have no other bid and the building was sold to Zeckendorf for that price.

Zeckendorf also owns the 77-story Chrysler Building, second tallest skyscraper in the world. The Empire State Building, which has 102 stories, is the tallest in the world.

"I think we paid a marvelous property and paid a fair price for it," Zeckendorf said, but added that the bid was "higher than I was cheerful about going."

"That was the last $1,000 I would have paid," he said.

Prima Donna Stands Up Governor

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Temperamental prima donna Maria Callas stood up the governor of Missouri and 750 leading citizens of Kansas Tuesday night when she failed to appear at an elaborate reception held in her honor.

A string quartet played Strauss waltzes as the formally attired guests sipped champagne and waited.

Newsman and photographers, herded into a special room and ordered to stay there, also waited in vain.

Finally, a telephone call from Miss Callas' manager informed Gov. James T. Blair Jr., and the apprehensive group that the singer would be unable to appear.

Miss Callas arrived Tuesday after a flight from Milan.

David Stuckey, who negotiated with her for tonight's scheduled concert, said Miss Callas was exhausted and suffering from an ear ache and throat trouble. He said the diva believed going out in the 41-degree night air would harm her voice, which she preferred to save for tonight's performance.

Rough Winter Is Forecast

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The high westerlies have got their directions mixed up, and if something doesn't put them back on normal course we're in for a rough, stormy winter.

Dr. Jerome Namias, chief of the Weather Bureau's extended forecasts section, refused today to predict whether these winds will or won't straighten up and blow right before winter comes.

But he did offer this possibly reassuring bit of weather lore gleaned from experience: Weather patterns often change between October and November. In fact, changes in "weather regimes" occur more often in that period than any other, so it doesn't pay to predict what the winter will be like until you see what the November pattern is.

As things stand, any change probably would be for the better. The northern half of the country from the Rockies eastward was too hot for comfort during the summer. It also was hot in California and the southern plateau states. It was comparatively cool only in the far Pacific Northwest and the southern plains states such as Texas, Louisiana, and Arkansas.

Then the current pattern began to emerge in the fall. The high westerlies great rivers of air which normally flow mainly west to east, developed a north-south tendency. Successive shafts of cold polar air began invading the western and central parts of the country.

Mixed up this way, north-south channels are opened which, Namias said, cause "stronger injection of polar air southward and stronger injection of tropical air northward."

Active Winter Unless... A situation like that, with strong temperature contrasts storms, and if nothing happens to correct it, we're going to have "a very active winter with a lot of storminess and vigorous weather changes, he added.

The disordered westerlies produced some intense storms on the Pacific Coast a week or so ago. They were responsible for heavy rains from New England southward last week end. The pattern may change come November, but it looks pretty set in its way right now.

Namias reviewed his data for a moment. The latest storm bred by the pattern, he told his United Press International interviewer, should be affecting Great Britain "with strong winds off the Atlantic."

"Have you looked at your wire recently?" he asked. "I'd be surprised if there wasn't an item about it."

The reporter looked. He found a dispatch from London. It said "a gale battered Britain during the night..."

Local Bond Issue Of $700,000 Matched By Government

A meeting was held last night, to explore the possibilities of obtaining a new hospital for Murray.

The meeting was held at the Student Union Building at 6:30 with a number of persons in attendance. Included were the hospital boards, doctors, city and county authorities and other interested persons.

Paul Hackney, director of the Division of Hospital Licensure of the state and also secretary of the Division of Hospital and Medical Facilities, Kentucky State Department of Health was the principal speaker.

He reviewed the sixteen years of Federal assistance under the Hill-Burton act or Public Law 482 in the various communities over the nation.

He told the group that the act involved the Federal government matching dollar for dollar, money raised locally. The most usual manner is by a bond issue, he said.

He said the present hospital is not eligible for additions or renovations.

Funds for Murray would not be available until after June 30 of 1960 he said. He told the group that the service area for the Murray Hospital included Marshall County.

The meeting was to obtain information and to bring out facts concerning the Hill-Burton act.

The county would have to pass a bond issue in the amount of $700,000 which would be matched by $700,000 by the Federal government.

This total of $1,400,000 would supply the city and county with a completely new hospital equipped with laundry, heating plant, laboratory, operating facilities, and all other items needed in a modern hospital.

The hospital would be a 90 bed hospital. The present hospital has 65 beds by using the top floor which was opened and renovated several years ago.

The hospital would be constructed on the present grounds and the present hospital would be used as a nurse training home.

A planning committee was formed last night with Dr. Ralph Woods as chairman. On the committee are A. W. Simmons, Guy Billington, Dr. Hugh Houston, Bernard Harvey, Dr. Harry Whayne, Dr. John Quierterman.

This group will formulate plans and present them for consideration by the community.

Luther Robertson chairman of the hospital board presided last night. He introduced Dr. Woods who in turn introduced Dr. Hugh Houston who is a member of the Advisory Council, State Department of Health.

Dr. Houston introduced the speaker and J. H. Burress of the Division of Hospital Planning and Research, State Department of Health.

Figures Are Challenged

PRESTONSBURG (UPI) — Floyd County Court Clerk Duran Moore Tuesday challenged figures purporting to show that Gov. A. B. Chandler faced to receive a majority of the Prestonsburg votes in the 1955 general election.

Chandler as a press conference Monday implied that his hometown Bert T. Combs, Democratic nominee from Prestonsburg, cited figures furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davidson, Prestonsburg, which showed 1955 G.O. nominee Edwin Moore of Mount Washington carried the city of Prestonsburg by 20 votes.

Chandler said, "This shows the great support I got from Judge Combs and his associates in 1955. If, in the coming election, my town (Versailles) shows up the same way, they ought to have no complaints."

Moore said, however, that the figures furnished the governor were incorrect and that Chandler actually carried Prestonsburg 794 to 740.

He added that Chandler carried Floyd County 6,080 to 3,883 and carried Combs' home precinct 110 to 100.

Moore, custodian of the election records in Floyd County said that Chandler, "in making use of the incorrect figures was attempting to show that Mr. Combs' hometown did not give him (Chandler) a majority in the 1955 general election."

He said Davidson, who sent the letter with the figures to the governor, is a field representative for the state Alcohol Beverage Control Board in Floyd County.

New York Giants, Baltimore Colts, and San Francisco Forty-Niners Depend Upon Defense

By EARL WRIGHT
United Press International
The New York Giants, Baltimore Colts and San Francisco Forty-Niners believe the best defense is a good defense and have the first-place credentials to prove it.

New York has taken some of its worst whippings in Pittsburgh and needed its powerful defensive unit to salvage a 21-16 victory over the Steelers Sunday at Forbes Field. The triumph, a costly one which may sideline all-league halfback Frank Gifford for two weeks, enabled the Giants 4-1 to hold their one-game lead in the National Football League's Eastern Division.

The Green Bay Packers started Sunday's action tied with the Colts and Forty-Niners for the Western lead. The Packers 3-2 scored early in the third period at Baltimore to make the score 14-14. Then the Baltimore defense, combined with the passing of John Uhltras, triggered three quick touchdowns and the Colts won easily, 38-21.

San Francisco, which has allowed only 56 points, kept pace with Baltimore each 4-1 when Y. A. Tittle's 46-yard pass to R. C. Owens in the final 65 seconds produced a 20-17 victory over the Chicago Bears.

Browns Trounce Redskins
The Cleveland Browns and Philadelphia Eagles each 3-2 remained a game behind the Giants. Milt Plum threw four touchdowns passes while sparking Cleveland to an easy, 34-7 victory over the Washington Redskins.

The Eagles, aided by alert defensive play and Norm Van Brocklin's passes, erased a 24-0 deficit in the second half and edged the Chicago Cardinals 1-4, 28-24.

The Detroit Lions, 11 1/2 point underdogs, pulled Sunday's big upset by downing the Rams 2-3 at Los Angeles, 17-7. It was Detroit's first 1959 victory and left it tied with the Bears each 1-4 for last in the West.

Sam Huff, New York's All-

League center linebacker, scored the winning touchdown in the Forbes Field mud when he grabbed Larry Krutko's fumble and dashed five yards early in the final period. Bobby Layne, the one-man gang who threw a 35-yard pass to Buddy Dial for Pittsburgh's touchdown, then booted his third field goal of the game to cut New York's margin to five points.

Defense Saves Day
Huff and his defensive buddies saved the victory in the final minute by holding for downs on their six after Ernie Statner gave the Steelers a final chance by recovering a Joe Morrison fumble on the New York 16. Gifford scored twice in 52 seconds on 77 and 28 yard passes from Charlie Conerly but was taken from the field in an ambulance after suffering rib injuries.

Green Bay shocked the Colts and a sellout crowd of 57,577 when Lamar McHan's pass to Max Magee went for 81 yards and made it 14-14. The Baltimore defense and Units then reeled off three period touchdowns. John Sample ran a punt back 23 yards to start drive that Units ended with a three-yard pass to Alan Ameche. Linebacker Bill Pellington stole a McHan pass and ran 30 yards to score. Halfback Ray Brown stole another McHan pass to set up a Units toss to Raymond Berry for Baltimore's last touchdown.

Pass Wins Game
Tommy Davis' 31-yard field goal gave the Forty-Niners a 13-10 lead with about three minutes to go at San Francisco. Ed Brown drove the Bears 33 yards in three plays, throwing 30 yards to Jim Dooley to make it 17-13 with 1:54 to go. Y. A. Tittle then sent 59,045 fog-shrouded fans home happy by ending an 80-yard push with a pass which Owens leaped to snare in the end zone.

Plum enjoyed one of his finest days as a professional. He completed scoring passes of 76 and 15 yards to Bob Mitchell, a 12-yarder to Preston Carpenter and a 10-yarder to Ed Modzelewski. Jim Brown, who gained 122 yards in 17 rushes against the Redskins, ran 30 for the other Cleveland touchdown.

Van Brocklin completed touchdowns passes of 29 and 22 yards to Tommy McDonald, the second winning the game in the final minutes at Minneapolis. Bill Bull Barnes scored the other two Philadelphia touchdowns on plunges. Bob Pellegrini and Chuck Weber stole John Roach passes to set up two Eagle scores.

Earl Morrall, playing quarterback for the Lions because Tobin Rote has a broken bone in his hand, directed the club to its first victory of the season. Ken Webb and Dan Lewis scored Detroit's touchdowns on short passes and Jim Martin added a 37-yard field goal. Ollie Matson plunged a yard for the Rams, who lost the ball three times on interceptions before 74,288 fans.

TOUGH SADDLE

By MATT STUART

© By Matt Stuart, 1959; from the Dodd, Mead & Co. novel, distributed by King Features Syndicate.

CHAPTER 13

SAGE WINGO was the disas- ter knowledge that ne'd missed putting a slug into Link Asbell with every try, even this last time, with Asbell speeding across the street.

He'd been upset by whoever it was that had caught in on the night up by the Imperial. Now the whole play was sour, with Asbell on this side of the street and closing in. The smart thing to do was get out of the alley, and fast!

Wingo whirled into the alley depths after a horse. But the clatter and bellow of gunfire had the animal edgy, and when Wingo tried a grab for the reins, the horse spun farther away.

At the corner Link Asbell listened only a moment, then swung into the alley, close pressed against the south wall of it. And then, into the curdled blackness, where a horse wheeled and tramped and its owner cursed, he drove a bullet.

The report, rolling heavy along the alley, decided it for the horse. It raced for the open night, and Sage Wingo, trapped and desper- ate, came around and fired a final shot down the alley's narrowness just to one side of the flare of Wingo's gun. Link Asbell placed one shot, then placed another a little to the other side.

It was the second slug that counted. Under the impact of it Sage Wingo's heavy head jerked backward and he was instantly dead, the head chattering its way through his skull.

Up at the Imperial, Ben Dillon came hurrying into the street, wondering at the shooting and the cause for it. Just past the end of his fifth rack, he tripped over a sprawled and motionless figure.

Down on one knee he scratched a match, and by its small flare, had his look. He swore in short, startled wonder. For he was looking into the dead face of Bardo Sampson.

Out at Running M. headquar- ters the sunlight of a new day sprayed its bright cheer through window and open door. In the ranchhouse kitchen, Mandy Mad- son and Sue Vincent were com- bining forces in cooking.

The skirl of wheels and thump of trotting hoofs took Sue to the window.

"It's Doc Jerome," she an- nounced.

When he came quietly into the kitchen, Sue thought she'd never seen Doc so sober and contained as now. Premonition stole through Sue, and she fixed Doc with a straight, searching glance.

"There's been more trouble

Doc Jerome. Something else has hap- pened."

Doc nodded. "Plenty has hap- pened."

A great terror lashed through Sue.

"Link!" she exclaimed. "Oh, Doctor—not Link?"

"No," Doc said gently, "not Link. He's all right. But I may as well tell you all of it, for it is the sort of thing best got over quickly."

So then he did tell them. He told of the deadly violence that had stalked the streets of Gar- rison town this past night. And finally, he told of now, while the town was still in wild uproar over these grim facts, Joe Orr, the cook at Double Diamond, had ridden a foaming horse into town with the word that Jonas Daimar lay dead out at Double Diamond, victim of the bullet of some un- known killer.

"Unknown, that is, until a later development turned up," Doc end- ed. "Wingo's horse, after spook- ing out of the alley, ended up hunting company at Jigger Hen- ley's livery corral."

"Jigger discovered the animal and got the bunch to look through Wingo's saddlebags. In one of them he found a certain sack of money. Joe Orr recognized the sack. He said that more than once he'd seen Jonas Daimar pay- ing new wages out of it."

"Then," said Mandy Madison, "it was Wingo who—"

"Hardly any doubt of it," Doc said. "He killed Jonas Daimar, all right. Now's Frank this morn- ing. He awake?"

"Yes," Mandy nodded. "and I was wondering if we should feed him a little of the grub I have for Nels."

"I should think so," Doc said. "With the bad news he's got to listen to, a little nourishment might help to offset it. Though over the long haul, he'll probably realize it has all been for the best."

Sue questioned him tautly. "Is Link still in town, Doctor?"

Doc shook his head. "He prob- ably went right on along to Big Five."

Sue looked at Mandy Madison. "I left for a while, would you mind?"

Stunmately wise, Mandy an- swered warmly.

"My dear of course I don't mind. I once heard my Nels say that when the chips were down, Link Asbell set a mighty tough saddle. Be that as it may, the man's mortal and right now he'll be needing understanding. Sue, so you run right along."

She rode at a reaching, dis- tance-eating lope, watching eager- ly as Big Five headwaters lit- tled from the plain and swept grand- ly closer. She saw Asbell's horse, still under saddle, standing by the corral.

She pulled up beside the buck- skin, dismounted and crossed straight to the ranch office. There, as she had hoped, she found him. He was slouched far down in his chair, his hat on the floor be- side him. He had the look of a man who had been savagely beat- en, but with all the bruises inside. He stood, looking down at him, and slowly spoke.

"Doctor Jerome came out to Running M. He told us—all of it. Oh, Link—Link—what have you been through?"

"Hell," he answered toneless- ly. "Maybe you should have stay- ed at Running M. Frank Daimar—he's got some tough listening ahead of him. His father being killed—and all."

"Yes," agreed Sue gravely. "He has that ahead of him. But I'm not concerned over Frank just now. I'm thinking about you—and what it has all done to you."

He shouldered lifted and fell in a faint shrug.

"I'll get over it. Time will take care of that. Given enough time a man can get over a lot of things. Even—even—" He paused and shook his head. "No," he went on, murmuring as if to him- self, "no, there could never be enough time to forget the only one who ever counted."

He came to his feet abruptly and spoke with a quick rough- ness.

"I don't suppose that makes sense to you?"

"She answered very steadily, very surely. "It makes all the sense I'll ever want to hear. Oh, Link—"

Her mouth was very tender, her eyes deep-aching as she came straight to him.

"Frank," he protested. "I thought that maybe Frank Daimar—"

"I know you did," she cut in quickly. "But he never did count—that way."

"How long," he asked, a little later, "have you felt this way?"

"From the very first. From the day Dad died you. Oh, I didn't realize it then, of course. And not fully until—until this trouble started. Then I knew. Then I knew it had been for—always. Then I was sure, Link—so very sure."

She burrowed a fragrant head against his shoulder.

The fixed tautness left him. Last night, and all that it held, was suddenly far, far away. It was like a bad dream, swift fading in the bright, truthful light of day.

But this moment was real, and the girl in his arms was real, and there was, it seemed, glory for a man in the THE END

New Concord PTA Hears Talk On Better Schools By Principal Edward Curd

Mr. Curd, principal of New Concord High School, spoke at a recent meeting of the Parent-Teachers Association held in the school auditorium.

Mr. Curd's topic was "Kentucky United For Better Schools". He discussed an 11 point program recommended by Kentucky educators and laymen designed to improve Kentucky schools. Mr. Otis Lovins commented briefly upon this important program.

The main program was presented by the Junior High and the Beta Club under the direction of Mrs. Anne Wood.

Mr. Ewing Stubbfield gave the Bible reading and Mr. Lovins led in prayer.

Mrs. Hardeman Miller, PTA president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Alonzo Forrest, secretary, reported that the sidewalk had been repaired as was previously planned and that the PTA and Beta Club would point-ly present a minstrel show next month.

Mrs. Clifford Farris, Homecoming supper chairman, reported on the work done by the various committees and other plans were discussed. Over 200 cards have been mailed by the reservations committee. If any former student teacher, or member fails to receive a card and wishes to attend, reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Clifford Farris, or any of the New Concord teachers November 1. The supper will be on Saturday night, November 28.

Mrs. Miller read a letter from Russell Johnson, inviting PTA members to attend a meeting at Murray High School on November 12.

The group voted to sell pie and coffee at all of its meetings as a means of raising money and also to afford a social hour. The prize for having the largest number of parents in attendance was won by the eleventh grade.

president, led the club members in a discussion of their objectives, requirements, and accomplishments. She thanked the PTA for helping send a delegate to the Beta club convention. Freddie Roberts, county president, presented a pin to Mr. Curd in recognition of his help, encouragement and faith in the club.

The "Beta Bouncers" presented two novelty musical numbers. Announcement was made of the Halloween Carnival to be held at the school this week. The next meeting will be December 1.

COFFEE BREAK-IN

BELLOWS FALLS, Vt. — (UPI) — A branch of the Vermont Bank and Trust Co. here was broken into and robbed of only $125 of employees' coffee money.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora King and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Parker, have just returned from a week's visit with Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Spiceland and other friends and relatives in Detroit, Mich.

ROBBER ON CRUTCHES—Los Angeles Police Sgt. Manuel Pena takes statement from James Eddy, 23, who may be the only robber on crutches in police annals. Eddy, armed with a club, got $37.50 from a hotel desk, then hid in a big flower box. He might have eluded police completely, but a cop happened to admire the flowers, then found himself looking at the first posies with blue eyes he'd ever seen. Eddy told police he hasn't been able to get work since his ankle was injured two years ago and he "never would have tried that if I hadn't been hungry."

BLIMEY!

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (UPI) — The USO thought it would be a nice gesture to offer genuine English tea to crewmen of the visiting British frigate HMS Scarborough. A local importing company furnished 1,000 tea bags for a party, but after the affair there were almost 1,000 bags still left. The crewman didn't drink the tea, but they exhausted the club's supply of milk.

OUTDOOR ASHTRAYS

BUFFALO, N. Y. — (UPI) — Mayor Frank A. Sedita has found an answer to a problem faced by many cities with anti-littering campaigns—how to dispose of cigarette and cigar butts for those who smoke outdoors. After checking with the sewer authority, the mayor found there was no objection to using the city's storm-drain receivers as outdoor ashtrays.
